RESULTS OF THE 2020 HUNTING SEASON

Even if we did not received your visit this last fall due to the restrictions at the borders, we nonetheless would like to inform you about the results of the hunt. However, because we interrupted our 2020 hunting activities by October 31th instead of December 4th due to the risks related to COVID, we cannot compare these results with certainty with other years. So for both September and October, the harvest was 1.82 deer per hunter. This means that 92% of the hunters bagged their two deer. This reflect our opinion for a normal season after our spring and summer observations in the field. To make a comparison, the result of the whole 2019 season was 1.85 deer per hunter.

The fact that we closed earlier this fall disappointed many clients and the employees for sure, but on the good side, this situation will bring one positive point; many deer had not been bagged (a mean of 325 deer normally for the November month) and this will benefit the herd for next year, unless the next winter is a rough one. In passing, at the time of this report, the winter is not started yet contrary of the last two years and the rut period went mostly on bare ground, which is a very good beginning.

We strongly wish that all the inconveniences due to the pandemic will be behind us for 2021 or at least controllable to some extent, so we can get back to our hunting activities in the most normal way.
