Review of the 2025 Season

Another season has just come to an end, and we are proud of it. Several challenges were met, and others will follow in the coming year.

Having experienced another drought during the summer, we began the hunting season with warm temperatures and drier terrain than usual. Despite a less abundant supply of natural, healthy food in the forest due to the weather, the presence of mushrooms helped feed the deer.

The deer harvest in September took off quickly with some beautiful specimens. Of course, in the weeks that followed, the presence of bucks became a little rarer, and several does were harvested. November arrived with the rut, and as the stays went on, mature bucks reappeared to the delight of the hunters. Snow arrived around mid-November and has remained on the ground since then.

The hunting success rate for the 2025 season is 98%, resulting in a harvest of 1.95 deer per hunter. An outstanding hunting season!

For the first year, we introduced two European-plan dinners added to the package: many groups loved this new formula! We have a very good chance of offering it again!

We would like to take this opportunity to congratulate our dining room team for the quality of their menu and service.

We applaud our field staff throughout our entire operating season: they did a fantastic job!!!

We are already looking forward to welcoming you back in 2026!
